

Engen celebrates 600th Quickshop milestone

Engen petroleum, one of South Africa's leading petroleum brand, has opened its 600th Quickshop in Durban.

The fuel company targets continued growth of its network across South Africa. Apart from the celebrated milestone, the company will also be opening its 70 Woolworths Food Stop.

"We want to thank our loyal customers who are the reason we have reached this great milestone. When our customers visit an Engen forecourt, our promise is to provide great customer service, exciting retail convenience partnerships, and fuels that offer both performance and economy," said Joe Mahlo, General Manager: Engen Sales & Marketing.

Mahlo said the company will continue to build on its winning strategy by seeking new innovations and tailoring its offerings to specific market segments.

"We will also continue the roll out of our signature convenience offerings across our network. This includes fast food and restaurant partnerships, coffee, alternate payment partnerships and a range of other innovations, including our latest Butcher's Best Biltong Bars," added Mahlo.
