One of the UK's leading Petrol stations has introduced The Wet Wipe Station to all their forecourts in the UK

Addgards' Wet Wipe station, a free standing anti-bacterial wet wipe dispenser with integrated bin has been placed in numerous forecourts in The UK and Ireland to enhance customer's experience.

Most viruses and illnesses are spread via common touch points such as Petrol pump handles, door handles, ATM machines, Shopping trolley Handles etc. No matter how thorough ones cleaning regime, a surface or handle is only as clean as the last user. Shell and many other petrol stations are giving their customers the opportunity to stop the spread of potentially harmful bacteria and germs through use of the Wet Wipe station. These Stations are placed at the entrance of the forecourt shop which encourages customers to buy food and beverages now that potential harmful bacteria and germs have been removed from their hands.

Toilets and washrooms tend to be cleaned more regularly than petrol pump handles, buttons on key pads / parking kiosks, shopping trolley handles. It comes down to the fact nobody really cleans the things you are going to touch on a daily basis, however, the Wet Wipe station will kill 99.9% of germs and bacteria stopping the spread of these potentially harmful viruses and illnesses.

Addgards is an Irish owned company who design all their own products and sell to some of the biggest multinationals in the world. Addgards develop and manufacture the Wet Wipe Station in Ireland and the product has proven to be a great success with Shell placing a station in every petrol forecourt in the UK, which is over 1020 Stations, it is also used by BP, HKS, Esso Ireland and Certas Energy. Other customers include Supervalu in Ireland and numerous gyms throughout the UK.

Their biggest customers in the USA are General Motors and Delta Airlines. The stations are available in a wide range of colours and finishes to suit any company's brand. It's an excellent customer care product with great added value for customers at very little cost.
