

Car wash site in Michigan registers record number of washes in 2017

A car wash site in Michigan managed to wash a record 515,367 during 2017 with its owners labelling it the “single highest producing car was in the United States.”

Quality Car Wash of Holland, Michigan, and Tommy Car Wash Systems have announced that during the 2017 calendar year the their site washed a record 515,367 vehicles – the two year old facility serves as a template for the expanding Tommy’s Express franchise.

This record marks the car wash as one of, if not the single highest producing car wash in the United States, according to the companies.

“Breaking half a million cars in a year at a single site remarkable, you just don’t see it in the industry... Credit goes to our outstanding team who constantly go above and beyond at Waverly and across all our locations, the dual belt conveyor and other equipment which is engineered to process as efficiently as possible (...),” said a representative.

The facility features a 130” tunnel as well as unbranded gasoline service and a Tim Horton’s franchise.
