StocExpo 2020

Connect, inspire and learn at the world's leading bulk liquid storage event.

StocExpo is the world's leading bulk liquid storage event, returning to Ahoy, Rotterdam on 10 - 12 March 2020.

The industry is going through a period of significant transformation. New environmental and safety regulations, breakthroughs in technology, and changes to the political landscape are among a long list of factors that will, without a doubt, have a significant impact on operations moving forward.

As a long-established event, strategically positioned in the ARA region, there is no better place to address these changes. With a lineup of world-class content that will throw light on the future of the industry, businesses can adapt to thrive within it. StocExpo will be an unmissable event in 2020.
