2nd Annual ME Static 2019

The 2nd Annual ME Static 2019 will be a high net worth technical conference with the latest equipment and technology available in the market to showcase the importance of the current need today and to adapt the cost-effective methods that will enlighten the end users and operators.

The program will forage a wide range of topics distinguished by the subject matter experts to feature engineering, design standards with maintenance & reliability as a special focus due to the sheer number of dwindling equipment and quantity of stored fluid in refineries or a petrochemical facility. The necessity to upgrade/replace will connect manufacturing, commissioning, and processing experts, both regionally and internationally around the wider world to address the best practices and to implement the appropriate and right service providers.
