

TSG acquires UK leading commercial fuelling specialist Cameron Forecourt

The acquisition brings two major players in their respective fields together.

Cameron Forecourt's specialisation in commercial fuelling sectors including haulage, rail and aggregates, will fit into TSG's position in retail fuelling.

"The opportunities for Cameron Forecourt under TSG's ownership are incredibly exciting. As a combined company we have the opportunity to offer new services and capabilities that are currently unavailable to the commercial fuelling market," said Barry Jenner, former Managing Director of Cameron Forecourt.

Jenner is now Business Development Director at Cameron Forecourt and will focus on the smooth integration of the two companies.

TSG has a presence in 30 countries with over 2,400 field engineers and around 40,000 fuelling sites under direct service.

"The company has been working hard on penetrating the commercial fuelling industry for some considerable time and has developed strong relationships with customers in that part of the industry," said Steve Watts, TSG Sales Director.