

Gas delivery company Filld expands in Vancouver

The company will deliver gas to residents' car during the night.

The pilot program will offer residents the possibility to sign up anytime to get delivery twice-a-week. Once enrolled, Filld will text users when its trucks are in the area, and a simple confirmation will send a Filld truck to a resident's address that evening.

Filld's has partnered with Vancouver, B.C.'s Hollyburn Properties Limited (Hollyburn) to offer mobile fueling for residents at the Shannon Tower, Nicola Place, Barafield, and Flamingo apartment homes.

"We have delivered tens of thousands of liters of fuel in the city thus far, and we are grateful for another opportunity to continue to connect with and serve locals. We are proud to partner with family-driven business leaders like Hollyburn who are committed above all to putting their communities first", reads Filld's press release.

"For over 40 years we have provided spaces for the Vancouver community to call home," said Allan Wasel, General Manager at Hollyburn Properties. "As a family-run company, it's important to us that all Hollyburn residents have access to amenities that help them unwind. By offering Filld's at-home fuel delivery, our communities can spend more time relaxing at home with friends and family instead of worrying about fuelling their vehicles."

Filld began serving Vancouver's metro area in December of 2018. The company is planning to expanding at-home fuel delivery to more Hollyburn apartment communities in the coming months.