Certas Energy, the UK's leading independent distributor of fuels and lubricants, hosted a ceremony for a new HGV refuelling bunker site in the heart of the 'Golden Triangle' of logistics in Northamptonshire. The new site will be located just 400m from the M1 at Junction 16.

Featuring a canopy cover design and eight high-speed refuelling pumps - each of which dispenses fuel at a speed of up to 120 litres per minute - the site will be able to deal with a high volume of customers.

The HGV refuelling bunker will be located alongside the existing Red Lion Truck Stop.

"The 'Golden Triangle' is a key strategic location, so we're delighted to begin the construction process. We believe that by partnering with an established and popular truckstop, such as The Red Lion, we have a platform to deliver a 'one-stop' destination for drivers and hauliers," said Andrew Goodwin, National Bunker Manager for Certas Energy.

With a national network of over 130 depots, over 900 tankers, more than 800 retail forecourts, fuel cards usable at over 2,000 sites and 2,300 employees, Certas Energy has the robust infrastructure in the UK.
