

Spain: Grupo Disa is the newest associate of Gasnam

The Spanish fuel retailer is hoping to boost its natural gas operations by joining Gasnam, an association that supports the development of LNG and CNG mobility.

The Disa Group, a new natural gas marketer and owner of the Shell brand in Spain, joins Gasnam as a new associate, according to the association.

The company focuses on natural gas solutions, both piped and liquefied as well as vehicle biogas projects.

As the fourth largest distributor of fuels in Spain, Disa has a network of around 600 stations operating under the brands DISA and Shell. It offers CNG and LNG natural gas vehicle solutions both at its gas stations and at its customers' centres. It also supplies "white label" gas stations.

The Disa Group is also a member of the Bio LNG Euronet project, co-financed by the European Union, in consortium with Iveco, Scania, Shell and Nordsol, which aims at developing 39 LNG Stations in Europe, 7 of them in Spain.

This project was created with the aim of expanding LNG as a fuel for road transport throughout Europe.
