

Dover announces two executive appointments

Dover has made two executive appointments to its senior leadership team.

David Malinas has been named senior vice president of operations. Malinas will focus on further developing Dover's commitment to operational excellence and provide direction to all of Dover's operating companies in the areas of manufacturing and engineering operations, sourcing, safety and quality. He most recently served as senior vice president and president, industrial process for ITT.

Previously, Malinas held executive-level positions at Thermo Fisher Scientific and Danaher Corporation. He earned his Bachelor of Science degree in chemical engineering and Master of Science degree from Case Western Reserve University.

Dover also named Ryan Paulson as Vice President, Controller, effective July 9, 2019. Paulson will also serve as the company's principal accounting officer.
