

ICWG enhances acquisition team with two members

Jeff Maize will be Senior Vice President of Acquisitions and Peter Sloan will be Vice President of Acquisitions.

The International Car Wash Group (ICWG) has announced two executive appointments to its acquisitions team, which includes the promotion of Jeff Maize to senior vice president of acquisitions and the selection of Peter Sloan as vice president of acquisitions, according to a press release.

“We are accelerating our acquisition efforts and building a very experienced team of professionals to accomplish our growth objectives,” said Tom Mangas, CEO, ICWG, whose vision for the company includes extensive expansion in the U.S.

“Jeff’s promotion recognizes the significant contributions he has made to ICWG. We look forward to strong acquisition growth under his ongoing leadership and with the addition of Peter Sloan,” added Mangas.

Maize has spearheaded several important acquisition deals for the company during his five-year tenure with ICWG, the release noted. He will continue to oversee acquisitions and explore opportunities to acquire sites in strategic areas of focus.

Sloan brings a diverse skill set to his role with ICWG, including finance, marketing and all facets of merger and acquisition strategy, the release noted. His recent professional experience includes vice president of business and corporate development at American Tire Distributors and founder/partner at Pine Street Growth Partners.
