

Spanish fuel retailers join top business association

By incorporating the Spanish association of retailers to the CEOE, the gas station industry wants to better cooperate with the automotive sector.

The Spanish Confederation of Service Station Retailers (CEEES) has agreed to join the Spanish Confederation of Business Enterprises (CEOE), the most important business organization in Spain.

Members of CEEES believe that the incorporation comes at a time when the industry is facing major changes due to the growing environmental awareness and increasing government regulations.

Working under the umbrella of the CEOE, Spanish fuel retailers will be able to have wider access to the automotive industry and be better prepared for the mobility system of the future.

Members of CEEES include more than 4,000 sites across the national territory.
