

Spain: BP opens first self-sufficient gas station in Fuerteventura

The new station is BP's 65th site in the Canary Islands.

This week oil company BP opens the first self-sufficient gas station on Fuerteventura island. The new site is located in Corralejo, reports Canarias7.

The gas station will also serve as a recharging point for electric vehicles.

The new site will be self-sufficient as it is equipped with two windmills and solar panels.

BP has been operating another EV recharging point in Fuerteventura since 2016, in a gas station located in the Muelle Chico area.
