

Irish service station retailer Inver launches new fuels

Inver Xtra is a range of new and improved petrol and diesel fuels.

Irish service station retailer Inver has launched Inver Xtra, a range of new and improved petrol and diesel fuels. These new fuels use an additive with enhanced cleaning power that help remove engine deposits, improving engine performance and fuel economy and reduces harmful emissions for the environment.

Inver Xtra fuels are now available at all Inver service stations and officially launched in the Irish market on February 14th 2020.

The fuel cleans engines to increase its power and efficiency, reduces corrosion, helps improve fuel burning efficiency, and reduces car emissions that negatively impact the environment, according to the Inver.

“As Ireland’s fastest growing service station network, launching Inver Xtra was the next step in our nationwide expansion. In keeping with our quality commitment, we are working with a leading international additives provider,” said Ben Lenihan, Inver’s retail director.

For every fuel purchase made at an Inver service station, we donate into our community ‘Every tank does some good for your community’ fund. These funds support a number of initiatives including our award winning ‘Leading Lights’ programme.