

UAE: ENOC Group opens its fifth site in the Emirate of Sharjah

ENOC's strategy is to operate 193 fuel stations across the nation by 2021.

ENOC Group recently opened a new service station in Al Dhaid, Sharjah. This is the 144th service station of ENOC and the 5th by the Group to open in the Emirate of Sharjah.

Spread across 40,000 square feet, the new ENOC service station incorporates state-of-the-art technologies and innovative features and will serve customers living in Al Dhaid. The station features a ZOOM convenience store with Grab & Go concept.

The service station has been built according to global best practices with full retail automation and modern construction standards and in compliance with Sharjah Municipality green standards. The fuel system is fully automated with auto-tank gauging and electronic leak detection system, while an advanced Vapour Recovery System prevents emissions and ensures that there are no hazardous emissions to the atmosphere. To reduce waiting time inside the station, dispensers are built with retractable hoses to enable refueling vehicles from both sides.

ENOC Group had accelerated the opening of the service station in light of the current situation, ensuring that frontline professionals and other essential service providers have easy access to fuel and other convenience store products.

"The new service station in Sharjah highlights our commitment to investing in the country's infrastructure to meet both short-term and long-term fuel needs. The opening of the station now further enables frontline staff and emergency service providers to access fuel easily, which we believe is critical in supporting the sterilisation programme. We are honoured to meet the fuel needs of emergency services and stand by them as they are the real heroes fighting this pandemic and saving lives," said Group CEO, ENOC, Saif Humaid Al Falasi.
