International fuelling equipment manufacturer shows supports for foodbanks in need.

OPW thanked local foodbanks that have worked to support families in need around the world with several donations. With many foodbanks reporting shortages, OPW has donated between $500 and $1,000 (USD) to key foodbanks in communities where OPW employees live and work.

“Many communities and industries have been impacted by COVID 19,” said OPW President Kevin Long. “We recognize the challenging times and are committed to supporting our employees and the communities in which we operate. OPW would like to thank the local foodbanks that are providing critical services for our neighbours in need.”

OPW has provided charitable donations to the following foodbanks to help them continue to provide meals in Greater Chicago Food Depository (Illinois), Khaana Chahiye (Mumbai, India), Oz Harvest (New South Wales), Inter-Faith Food Shuttle (North Carolina), The Trussell Trust (North Yorkshire, UK), Shared Harvest Foodbank (Ohio), Suzhou Industrial Park Volunteers Association (Suzhou, China) and De Pere Christian Outreach Food Pantry (Wisconsin).
