

Pay with GasBuddy surpasses half a billion dollars in fuel transactions

GasBuddy payments program moves to the top of drivers' wallets with promise to save money on every gallon of gasoline purchased.

GasBuddy, the travel and navigation app that is used by North American, announced its Pay with GasBuddy payments program has surpassed half a billion dollars in fuel transactions since the program started in August 2017.

That is $500,000,000 worth of gasoline purchased using Pay with GasBuddy, a major milestone for the company.

"Pay with GasBuddy provides the convenience and efficiency in fuel-savings that consumers demand, making it the payment-of-choice for hundreds of thousands of drivers," said Sarah McCrary, CEO at GasBuddy. "No matter where people live, what their credit scores are, or what fuel brands are available to them, our mission at GasBuddy is to provide everyone with a way to save."

Drivers who enroll in the program receive a Pay with GasBuddy debit card that is connected to their checking account; when swiped at the pump, consumers receive automatic discounts on their fuel purchase.
