

Plenoil opens its 50th automatic station in Spain

The company plans to become the largest independent fuel retailer in Spain by 2022 with 150 sites.

Spanish automatic gas station chain in Spain, Plenoil, has reached 50 sites with the latest opening in Ávila.

Plenoil plans to continue expanding setting the goal of 65 automatic sites by the end of the year. Its mission is to become the largest independent fuel retailer by 2022, reports El Confidencial.

"Reaching this figure, within the environment in which we are living due to the pandemic, has been the culmination of a challenge and is key to the growth of the company," explained the CEO of Plenoil, José Rodríguez de Arellano.

The company currently has employees during the day to maintain measures of hygiene at the site during the fulling process. The station works 24h as an automated site.
