

Spain: Andamur, Molgas launch second joint gas station in La Junquera

Their first joint site opened in Guarromán, as a result of a collaboration agreement signed in 2018 to deploy a network of natural gas filling stations in Spain.

Andamur and Molgas are making progress on their collaboration agreement to set up a network of natural gas filling stations in Spain with the delivery of their second joint location in La Junquera, Catalonia. The new site follows the opening of the Andamur-Molgas first fueling station in Guarromán last September.

Open 24 hours a day, La Junquera station will supply liquid natural gas (LNG). The station is free to access and accepts debit and credit cards, as well as fuel cards from both companies.

Scale Gas, a startup born out of Enagás' venturing programme Enagás Emprende, dedicated to small-scale infrastructure and logistics solutions, will manage Andamur La Junquera service area.

La Junquera location becomes also Molgas' eleventh natural gas station in Spain.

Andamur and Molgas signed in 2018 an agreement to build and operate a network of LNG and CNG stations in Spain, with planned multi-energy service stations in La Junquera (Gerona), Guarromán (Jaén), Pamplona (Navarra) and San Román (Vitoria).
