

Vivo Energy, which markets Shell fuels in Africa, extends network to 1,500 fuel stations

Vivo Energy, which distributes and markets Shell fuels and lubricants in Africa, has opened its 1,500th fuel station in Africa, the company said.

Vivo operates in 16 African countries, it said. It was established only three years ago as a Shell licensee, it said on a statement released December 16.

Vivo Energy's main focus will continue to be on expanding its network of service stations, the company added.