

PDI completes Intellifuel buy

Professional Datasolutions, Inc. (PDI), a technology and service solutions provider in the convenience store and wholesale petroleum industry, announced it has completed the acquisition of Titusville, Florida-based fuel management and logistics solutions Intellifuel Systems, Inc.

Intellifuel automates downstream and midstream petroleum and biofuels operational processes and is highly regarded for customer service speed and quality, stated a company release.

PDI, meanwhile, provides software, hardware, and professional services to more than 325 companies present in more than 31,000 locations worldwide.

“As the market leader, PDI has a strong reputation for being the best in the industry. We look forward to extending that reputation by combining PDI’s industry-leading ERP solution with Intellifuel’s premier logistics solutions,” said Rick Evans, Co-Founder of Intellifuel.

Greg Gilkerson, President and CEO at PDI, cited previous collaborations between PDI and Intellifuel: “After many successful partnerships with Intellifuel in the past, we are eager to combine the two companies to provide a robust, single solution to the market.”

The value of the acquisition has not been disclosed.
