

Yoshi expands fuel delivery, mobile car wash services in Los Angeles

Mobile service station Yoshi has expanded its on-site car maintenance and gas delivery services in the Los Angeles (LA) area to meet increasing consumer demand.

Yoshi is now delivering gas, oil changes, car washes, and other car maintenance services directly to customers' cars in the Pasadena, Santa Monica, Burbank, Beverly Hills, Hollywood, and West Hollywood areas – more than doubling its service area in Los Angeles.

“Yoshi has been really popular in LA because there is such a high volume of car commuters and traffic is a challenge, so people want to avoid additional stops at the service station,” said Yoshi CEO Nick Alexander.

Yoshi's subscription service is also offered by LA-based companies as an employee benefit.

To speed up its geographic expansion, Yoshi raised $13.7 million thanks to a Series A round of funding led by General Motors Ventures and ExxonMobil.

The company is also operating in various cities across the US such as the San Francisco Bay Area, Atlanta, Austin, Chicago, Cleveland, Minneapolis/St. Paul, Nashville, St. Louis, and Tampa/St. Petersburg.
