One week left to save on your delegate fee to attend LNG2019

The largest global event dedicated to LNG, 19th International Conference & Exhibition on Liquefied Natural Gas is presented by the International Gas Union (IGU), Gas Technology Institute (GTI) and the International Institute of Refrigeration (IIR) - the only LNG event owned by the industry, run for the industry.

In April 2019 it will be hosted in China, the world's fastest growing LNG market. This will be the only opportunity to hear from the most senior LNG industry players in 2019, providing a unique chance to learn from and network with the world's leading energy companies including CNPC, Gazprom, CNOOC, Chevron, Exxon Mobil Corporation, International Energy Agency, Royal Dutch Shell and many more.

China is now the world's second-largest LNG importer and Asia has been the focus of the industry's greatest investments in LNG import and export infrastructure in recent years. China now has 21 LNG receiving terminals and with so many investment and market opportunities it provides the perfect backdrop to LNG2019. Running alongside the four day conference, the exhibition will also showcase the most innovative products and technology on the market today.

The Conference Programme now features over 180 confirmed speakers from all the major players of the LNG industry, including CEOs of both Chinese and international companies. The programme presents debate between industry leaders, innovation and technical developments, commercially-focused presentations, open and interactive discussions, all with a focus on working towards a sustainable LNG future.

The Plenary Sessions are high-level, globally relevant sessions that will focus on the future of LNG across topics including:

- The Global Outlook for LNG
- New LNG Markets
- LNG: A Sustainable Fuel for a Sustainable Future

- The Changing Map of Supply
- Business Models for a Competitive LNG Market
- Downstream LNG Infrastructure and Applications
- Opportunities in the China LNG Market

The full LNG2019 programme and confirmed speakers can now be viewed on the event website including information on Training Courses, unique Technical Tours of Shenergy's gas facilities also Networking Functions also available to conference delegates.
