

Tanknology to host International Licensee Summit

Tanknology Inc. will hold an International Licensee Summit in Barcelona, Spain, on February 18-20, 2019.

The event will be Tanknology's first International Licensee Summit. The company plans to host the event tri-annually, rotating locations among Europe, Latin America, and the Asia-Pacific region.

The summit will include discussions, workshops, and informational sessions on topics such as the transition from reactive to preventative maintenance for fuelling facilities; tank cleaning, fuel polishing, biocides, and ethanol; providing tank tightness testing services in non-retail markets; and new service line opportunities such as sts protec and fuel quality management.

"We are looking forward to this opportunity to both strengthen long-held partnerships and support newly established licensees, furthering our mutual success," said Megan Stewart, the organizer of the event.

Founded in the United States in 1988, Tanknology has been operating internationally for 28 years.
